This topographic map displays the municipality of Wachtberg and its surroundings. The map is overlaid with two types of landscape protection zones: a large area of solid green shading and a network of diagonal hatching. The green areas cover most of the rural and semi-rural landscape, while the hatched areas are more fragmented, often following linear features like roads or watercourses. Several urban centers are shown as dense clusters of buildings, including Wachtberg in the center, and other locations like Adendorf, Brühl, and Sieglar. The map includes a detailed grid of roads, fields, and other geographical features. A legend in the top-left corner explains the symbols for landscape protection and agricultural intensification. A scale bar and metadata are also present in the same area.
